Found an interesting presentation on the Turing completeness of Powerpoint and how totally useful it is as a programming language. Pretty funny stuff. Perhaps Dr. Lusth can have students implement the projects in PowerPoint instead of C next semester?