Question one and two deal with "A purely functional language cannot have loops..." Is this loops in the sense of looping constructs so while loops or for loops? Or would we consider recursively calling a function a loop?

Subject: Re: Question 1 and 2 First Content Exam
Posted by lusth on Sat, 24 Sep 2016 17:05:48 GMT

A loop just means the same code is executed over and over. So recursion definitely qualifies as a loop.