Can anyone explain why we only need to replace the r-value instances of symbols? Does it have to do with possibly changing function calls?

So you don't turn something like:

```
(set! + (lambda (a b) ...))
```

into:

```
(set! <builtin +(> (lambda (a b) ...))
```

if you were to replace the symbol + with the binding of +.