Is there a certain amount of numbers we should be able to output from the big gulp stream without seeing garbage collection? I start seeing the garbage collector after 9 numbers.

I can print as many as I want with no garbage collection. I am assuming most students are filtering the stream which will cause garbage collection. It is possible that given a value to find the next value in constant time given enough information.

Both ways are in the book