For Test 2, instead of doing a schedule for study a week leading up to the test, one can start early and be less stressed by working with smaller amounts of information by following the class schedule. This time I'll post threads and prepare the Google Docs with the following goals in mind for anyone who wants to follow along:

- Perform some practice problems before the class time, and review the assigned readings to prepare for in-class questions
- Follow-up on practice questions the night after a lecture and the following day
- Review concepts a week after introduction and put information that was not easily recalled on your personal cheat sheet
- The previous consolidated document that contained links to old practice will still remain, as will the comment threads on them.
