Apparently some changes to the assignment were made during a class I missed (shame on me; I should probably drop) that I just noticed.

What are sizeBST and the corresponding VBST and RBT methods supposed to return? The height, or the number of nodes?

What does the wordRBT return? The number of unique words (nodes) or the total number of words (including freq counts)?

Common sense would tell me that size is the number of nodes whereas wordRBT/wordVBST includes the frequency, but I'd like to be sure. Also, why were these added?

Having read the assign2 page more carefully, it's painstakingly obvious that sizeBST is the number of nodes, and therefore wordRBT is probably including the frequency count.

I should definitely drop.
