is there only way we can test our program by going through test drop box?

Besides the test3 dropbox, there are testing files made by Scott in a forum post called "okayest testing files ever" or something, and two sets of testing files for darray and binomial by me on the forum.